An Onion, Spinach, Cheese Hobnob in One Dish

BY FLORENCE LA GANKE.

WHEN the doctor tells you to serve spinach to the children as many as four times a week, there do come times when you wish that grown ups would eat spinach as well as children. Then you would not have to fuss with two vegetables, one for the adults and another for the children.

Such thoughts as those were running through Nancy's mind as she cooked the spinach for Joan and wee Peter. She and big Peter were having onions as the dinner vegetable. From the closeness of the spinach and the onions on the table, Nancy evolved an idea for a new dish.

ONION +
SPINACH +
CHEESE.

She used the large, sweet, Spanish or Bermuda onions.

These onions were peeled and boiled whole in salted water. When they were tender, but still intact, she removed them from the water and cut them into halves crosswise. She put a little butter on the cut side and then spread a spoonful of cooked, sieved or chopped spinach on top of each half. Over the spinach she put thin shavings of a cooking cheese that melts easily. And over the cheese went the paprika and a dash of salt. These onions were then put in a baking dish in the oven and allowed to stay there until the cheese had melted and made funny little rivulets down the side of the spinach. Then the vegetable was served. And big Peter ate his dressed up spinach as easily and readily as wee Peter ate his plain spinach puree.

Perhaps you would like to serve a sandwich with these onions for luncheon. Write to Nancy Page, care of The Detroit Free Press, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope, asking for her sandwich leaflet No. 2.
