

New Quilt Design Is Free to Readers

The principal motif of the new Free Press quilt design, the Garden Bouquet, is a graceful urn holding a flower with a bird perched daintily on either side.

The pattern for the urn will appear in the household arts pages of the Sunday Free Press, Jan. 31. It will be followed by a pattern for the tulip, and then two bird designs. Look for these patterns in each issue of the Sunday Free Press.

A direction leaflet containing a diagram of the quilt, suggestions as to colors and fabrics, amount of material needed, stitches used, and cutting directions, is free.

Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Nancy Page, Detroit Free Press.

Serve Fruit Daily

Fresh or dried fruit should be served at least once a day. Twice is better.
