LAUREL WREATH QUILT—LEAFLET NO. 14

EVEN though the tulip pattern is shown in plain pieces of material, it is advisable you will find some brilliant striped material that you can use.

Pretend the tulip is a parrot type and has the variegated colors even though it does not have the ragged edges. If you do want to use plain colors it is suggested you use two tints of yellow, pink or lavender.

And if you have the stripes make the top petal of plain in the predominating color of the striped one.

This tulip is appliqued onto a block that is cut  $10\frac{1}{2} \times 12\frac{1}{2}$  inches. It becomes the second block in the third row. The second and fourth blocks in each of the five rows are narrower by two inches than the first, third and fifth. The reason for that is this—the leaves on the wreath overlap and give the effect of continuous scrolls. If the blocks were all of the same width then the leaves would have to be larger on some of the blocks. That would have destroyed the feeling of symmetry, so the device of narrow blocks was used.

This flower calls for two petals, one stem and two leaves, just five pieces in all. The leaves go on first, then the stem, then the upper petal and lastly the lower petal. Then the stamens are embroidered in fast color embroidery cotton.

YOU'LL FIND TWO COMIC PAGES EVERY DAY IN THE DETROIT NEWS.
