

Quilters Already Talking About Future Quilt Show

By EDITH B. CRUMB

IT is a long time before the next show, but it is being talked about and planned for already by some cornerites.

Mrs. Gabrielle Baecheroot has a big secret about the quilt she is making for it and no one is going to see it until the time to show it. She is having difficulty, for the minute she gets it out and starts to work on it some one rings her door bell and arrives for a little visit, so she has to scamper about and put her blocks and patches away.

Mrs. Baecheroot says that it is quite an elaborate pattern. She is planning to donate some quilt patches to the Nancy's Belles' Bazar. A few years ago she cut enough for 20 quilts and she thinks that enough blocks cut to complete a quilt would sell readily. She has about enough for 12 quilts left out of the 20.

YWCA Notes

STAY-AT-HOME camps in three YWCA branches will conclude their summer programs with open house day activities next week. Mothers, fathers, sisters and brothers are invited to drop in all through the week to attend regular sessions which will wind up the handcraft and recreation classes.

Thursday will be feature day, starting with 9 a. m. assembly and including specialties such as dramatics, a style show put on by the sewing group and a hobby show by hobby club members. Tea will be served from 2:30 to 3:30 p. m. to demonstrate the knowledge of social custom and entertaining learned by the girls of that group this summer. Mrs. Gladys Wyland is camp director.

Families of the young campers may spend the day with them, bringing picnic lunches. International Center and Lucy Thurman branches will close their summer camp programs with exhibits and demonstrations.

gay colors on the light blue background were very attractive. She hopes to have it finished tomorrow for she does not wish to leave it unfinished when she starts on her vacation on Monday. She is going to Bay Court Mothers' Camp at New Baltimore for three weeks.

Mrs. Eva Schaub was so ashamed of the report in the Corner last week that she did not do a stitch of work that she was busy every minute yesterday afternoon on a needlepoint covering for a foot-stool.

Mrs. T. L. Murdock kept her fingers and needle flying, too, on her Italian hemstitched tablecloth, to make up for playing hookey and going to the ball game last Friday.

Gretchen Reinhold is trying to finish a sampler for her room before school begins again. It is in black cross-stitch on white linen and the verse is "He who sows courtesy, reaps friendship."

Mrs. Marian Ridler wished me to remind you that next Thursday there will be extra special fun at the island picnic. Everybody is invited to come and bring her lunch and there will be games and prizes. Meet at the shelter near the Schiller monument. There is always a quilt hanging out as a sign.
