Volume 25 of the Research Papers of the American Quilt Study Group

Edited by Kathlyn Sullivan

Authors and Editor

Kaaren Beaver-Buffington, a Pacific Northwest native, has combined her passion for all types of needlework and the books that illuminate these arts, with a commitment to historic preservation. She served as co-founder and president of the Arcata (CA) Museum and as assistant curator of the Clarke Historical Museum in Eureka. Kaaren holds a history degree from Humboldt State University and plans continued studies in Arts Administration at the University of Oregon. In 2003 she was awarded Preservationist of the Year in Arcata and recently relocated to Portland, OR to an 1888 house she restored.

Barbara Brackman was one of the first members of the American Quilt Study Group and is proud to be the author of the first paper in the first volume of Uncoverings. She is a free-lance writer who specializes in quilt history, women's history, and western history. Among her books are America's Printed Fabrics, 1770-1890 and Encyclopedia of Pieced Quilt Patterns. She is a member of the Quilters Hall of Fame and honorary curator of quilts at the Spencer Museum of Art at the University of Kansas.

Lucinda Reddington Cawley is a graduate of the Georgetown University School of Foreign Service. A native of Scranton, PA, she has been fascinated by Pennsylvania quilts since she began making and collecting quilts in the late 1970s. In 1997 she co-authored Saved For The People of Pennsylvania: Quilts From The State Museum of Pennsylvania. The research for that publication sparked an interest in Pennsylvania friendship quilts and for the past five years has been focused on quilts inscribed in fractur letters.

Loretta B. Chase has been studying both New England rural development and regional quilt history since she moved to New Hampshire from California twenty years ago. She holds a B.A. in Decorative Art from the University of California, Berkeley, and an M.S. in Resource Administration and Management (Community Development) from the University of New Hampshire. Currently Chase works as a watershed planner to restore and protect the Cocheco River that powered the great nineteenth century cotton printing mills in Dover. She also teaches quilting to women's groups in Belize.

Virginia Eisemon is a recent graduate of the Parsons School of Design—New School University with an M.A. in the History of American Decorative Art. Her interest in quilt history arose from working at the National Museum of American History Smithsonian Institution (Textiles Collection). Her earlier studies were at the University of Wisconsin with a B.A. in Sociology and a M.Sc. in Education. She has lived and worked in Canada and India and currently resides near Washington, DC. 214

Mary E. Gale is an instructor and academic advisor at the University of Rhode Island. She has an M.S. in Textiles, Fashion Merchandising and Design from the University of Rhode Island. Her research interests include Eighteenth-Century fabrics and fibers. Other publication credits include a series of articles, "Textiles and the Environment from AATCC," in Textile Chemist and Colorist 30, 31, 32 (1998-2000) with Martin Bride; and "Indigo-Resist Prints from Eighteenth Century America: Technology and Technique" CTRJ, 22(1/2), with Margaret T. Ordoñez. Last fall, she involved her textile students in a community service project making quilts for terminally ill and traumatized children with Project Linus of RI.

Laurel Horton has an M.S. in Library Science (University of Kentucky) and an M.A. in Folklore (University of North Carolina—Chapel Hill). She has served AQSG both as president and as editor of Uncoverings. A frequent author and lecturer, her research interests include quilting traditions in the southeastern United States, international quilting, mosaic patchwork, and issues regarding gender. Her book on the Mary Black family quilts will be published in 2005 by the University of South Carolina Press.

Margaret T. Ordoñez, Ph.D., is a professor of Textiles, Fashion Merchandising, and Design at the University of Rhode Island where she also serves as director of the Historic Textile and Costume Collection. A nationally known authority on textile conservation, she co-edited the book Down By The Old Mill Stream and wrote the chapter on printing technology. Department of Textiles, Fashion Merchandising and Design, University of Rhode Island, Kathlyn Sullivan, the editor of Uncoverings, is involved with many aspects of quilting. She is an AQS Certified Appraiser of Quilted Textiles and an NQA Certified Judge. Her experience as documentation coordinator for the NC Quilt Project and as partner in the retail business, Vintage Textiles and Tools, has kept her involved in quilt history. Co-author of North Carolina Quilts, she also wrote the text for Gatherings: America's Quilt Heritage. She serves on the Board of Advisors for the Gallery of Art and Design at North Carolina State University.

Pamela Weeks Worthen grew up learning genealogy and family history with her grandfather. As a tenth generation resident of New Hampshire on her father's side and twelfth generation on her mother's, those interests have deepened through her research on album quilts. Pam is a juried member of the League of New Hampshire Craftsmen and has been quilting and teaching for thirty years. She has had quilts juried into regional and national shows and has traveled to Brazil as an arts ambassador through Partners in America. Pam is an AQS Certified Appraiser of Quilted Textiles and on the board of directors of the New Hampshire Quilt Documentation project, Phase 2. She is Executive Director of ABC Quilts, an international organization that fights AIDS and substance abuse through quilt-making, delivering quilts to babies born at-risk.

The American Quilt Study Group is a nonprofit organization devoted to uncovering and disseminating the history of quilt-making as a significant part of American art and culture. AQSG encourages and supports research on quilts, quiltmaking, quilt-makers, and the textiles and materials of quilts.

The American Quilt Study Group is dedicated to preserving the story of quiltmaking—past, present, and future. We invite you to join our ranks!
