Contributors

LORETTA B. CHASE holds a BA in Decorative Art from the University of California, and an MS from the University of New Hampshire. She works as River Coordinator for restoration of the Cocheco River. She joined AQSG in 1981 and first co-authored a paper in Uncoverings 2004. She has presented a paper at the Dublin Seminar and contributed articles to Blanket Statements. For fifteen years she lived in an eighteenth-century classic center-chimney cape in rural Madbury NH, where her curiosity led her to research on how the early quilts she found locally had been used on beds.

SUE CUMMINGS is a professor emeritus at Wright State University in Dayton, Ohio. She received a BA in chemistry from Northwestern University and MS and PhD degrees from the Ohio State University. She joined Wright State where she pursued her scientific career before retiring as full professor and head of the department. In addition, Cummings has a strong interest in Ohio history, local historic preservation, and antiques. She has been collecting and researching Ohio quilts for over thirty-five years and is the author of Album Quilts of Ohio's Miami Valley. A longtime member of AQSG, Cummings frequently presents lectures on Ohio quilts to historical societies and other groups.

MARIN F. HANSON, Curator of Exhibitions at the International Quilt Study Center & Museum, holds undergraduate degrees from Grinnell College and Northern Illinois University and earned an MA with a double major in Textile History (Quilt Studies emphasis) and Museum Studies from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. She co-curated the Museum's exhibitions "Quilts in Common" and "Nancy Crow: Cloth, Culture & Context" and co-authored the accompanying catalog. Hanson is the lead editor of the forthcoming volume, American Quilts in the Modern Age: 1870-1940, the first in a planned multi-volume catalog of the Center's entire quilt collection.

LAUREL HORTON is an independent quilt researcher. A native of Kentucky, she holds a BA in English and an MS in Library Science from the University of Kentucky, and an MA in Folklore from the University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill. Her 1979 thesis "Economic Influences on German and Scotch-Irish Quilts in Antebellum Rowan County, North Carolina," was one of the earliest studies of regional variations in American quilting traditions. Horton authored the award-winning book, Mary Black's Family Quilts: Memory and Meaning in Everyday Life. A member of AQSG since 1982, she edited Uncoverings from 1987 through 1993.

SUSAN PRICE MILLER graduated from DePauw University with a BA in history. She is an independent researcher and has written three previous papers for Uncoverings on Iowa-related quilts. With twenty-five years of quilting experience, she contributes projects as well as historical features to American Patchwork & Quilting Magazine. In 2002 Susan was project director and writer for Century of Quilts published by Better Homes & Gardens in recognition of the one-hundred-year history of Meredith Corporation.

AIMEE E. NEWELL is Curator of Collections at the National Heritage Museum in Lexington, Massachusetts. She is the former Curator of Textiles and Fine Arts at Old Sturbridge Village, as well as the former Curator of Collections at the Nantucket Historical Association. She received a BA in American Studies from Amherst College and an MA in History from Northeastern University. She is currently pursuing a PhD in History at the University of Massachusetts Amherst. She is a contributing author to the forthcoming Massachusetts Quilt Documentation Project book, Massachusetts Quilts: Our Commonwealth; and she has written for Piecework Magazine, Sampler and Antique Needlework Quarterly, Blanket Statements, and the Proceedings of the Dublin Seminar for New England Folklife. She is an Associate Fellow at the International Quilt Study Center in Lincoln, Nebraska.

ARLESA J. SHEPHARD is currently a doctoral student at the University of Missouri in Textile and Apparel Management. As an undergraduate at Ashland University she developed a passion for historic clothing and textiles during an internship at the Kent State University Museum in Kent, Ohio. She received an MA from the University of Akron with an emphasis on historic costume and textiles. She has volunteered and worked with several collections including the William McKinley Presidential Library and Museum in Canton, Ohio; the textile and apparel collection at the University of Akron; the Boone County Historical Society in Columbia, Missouri; and the Missouri Historic Costume and Textile Collection at the University of Missouri.
